

UrbanBaby

Boxed In

June 18, 2008; 5:19 am by UrbanBaby

You've successfully converted your 1BR into a two-bedroom family nest (with a makeshift "playroom" in the corner that doubles as your home office...and dining room). An extra person yielded a lot of extra stuff, and even though he's outgrown it you intend to keep it for the next baby (when yes, you will have to move).

The Box Butler's new service, Three Boxes and a Baby, helps save some closet space. These city storage pros provide three trunk-size containers to store clothes and toys to keep for memories, or for your next offspring. You pack, they take it away.

Sure beats schlepping to mini-storage.

For more information, visit theboxbutler.com.